Finance planning approved

By Bill Bagby
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Plans were made Wednesday night to acquire property for construction of Old Towne Centre and redevelopment of the downtown area.

The City Council approved a resolution affirming its intention to implement tax increment financing to obtain land for the new shopping mall and to make improvements downtown.

The financing plan would allow the city to use the future increase in property tax revenue, borrowing against it to raise funds.

THE RESOLUTION defined a tax increment district that includes a large portion of the downtown area, where the redevelopment is to be located. The area must be in a "blighted" condition where redevelopment or demolition would be the only means to alleviate blight.

A study of the defined area by the architectural, engineering and planning firm of Peckham, Guyton, Albers and Viets showed that it met conditions outlined in a state law for implementation of tax increment financing.

Aldermen also approved an ordinance establishing themselves, along with Mayor Von Dee Cruse, as a tax increment commission. Their duties will consist of holding public hearings and making recommendations on the adoption of redevelopment plans and projects and designation of project areas.

"We will be getting together in the next couple of weeks to go over the development plans step-by-step," said Cruse.

REACTION TO EARLY RETURNS is voiced by Democratic congressional candidate Pete Fields as he is interviewed by Channel 4's Debbie Faubion live on the late news Tuesday night. Fields carried Madison County, but was defeated by Rep. Mel Price in Price's bid for a 22nd term in the 21st District seat.

Party united, Fields says

By Jack C. Ventimiglia
Executive editor

GRANITE CITY — Party unity is being stressed by Democrats in the 21st Congressional District.

They'll need it, said the Republican challenger, Robert Gaffner, R-Greenville. Madison County Auditor Pete Fields failed in a strong bid in Tuesday's primary to unseat U.S. Rep. Mel Price, D-Bellefonte. But Fields said Wednesday that Democrats will unite in the November general election when Price, 81, faces Gaffner, 53.

Price agreed, saying he talked with Fields following the election. Price said the Democratic Party will be with him in November.

The general election promises to be one of the toughest the 21st-term Congressman has faced. Price said he will campaign hard to retain his post because Gaffner is a serious challenger. Fields agreed that's the right strategy.

"I don't think there's any question Mel's going to have to campaign more vigorously than he did in the primary," Fields said.

A hard campaign will have to be fought by Price, said Gaffner.

"I think he's going to have to," Gaffner said. "I think the vote last night showed in the district a serious erosion of confidence in him within the party."

Fields defeated Price in Madison County, taking 47 percent of the vote to 45 percent for Price, with the remainder split by the other candidates.

"We had absolutely no one for us in Madison County — none of the politicians. We had one labor union," Fields said. "We did it with the people."

No negative repercussions from party members are expected, Fields said, though he bucked the machine.

"I don't think I hurt myself politically," he said. "We ran a credible campaign."

With the help of St. Clair County Board Chairman Jerry Costello, Price did well in that Democratic Party stronghold, taking 11,426 votes to 4,946 for Fields.

The low turnout of voters district-wide is partially indicative of the number of independent voters, Gaffner said. Independent voters will not stick with Price in the general election, Gaffner predicted.

Due to the change in the country's political climate, including the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings Act, Gaffner said, "It's just going to take a different kind of leadership than the district is used to."

In the November election, Gaffner said he will devote himself to defeating Price. Adding to the effort, he said, is anticipated financial support from the National Republican Congressional Committee in Washington.

Funding in the 21st District should be viewed as worthwhile by the committee due to the low turnout for Price, Gaffner said.

"It has to show his vulnerability in the district," Gaffner said.

Merger proposal criticized

By Valerie Evenden

An overwhelming number of residents reacted negatively to proposed consolidation of the Venice and Madison school districts, at least among those attending Wednesday night's public hearing at the Madison Middle School.

Both Madison and Venice high schools are in conformance on paper with State Board of Education requirements in offering mandatory courses to four-year students, Madison County Regional Superintendent of Schools Harold E. "Gene" Briggs said at the hearing.

Stevenson stunned, shocked

By Bill Winter
Staff writer

"I will not serve on the ticket" if two surprise primary winners are declared the Democratic nominees, governor-nominee Adlai Stevenson said Wednesday.

"Stunned and shocked," party leaders plan to challenge both a 28-year-old ultra-conservative from Rockford, Mark Fairchild, who upset Sen. George Sangmeister 336,242 to 314,747 for lieutenant governor, and Chicago's Janice Hart, who won by 370,209 to 355,325 over Aurelia Pucinski for secretary of state.

THIRD-PARTY candidacies are among the options being considered by Stevenson and others, they said in Chicago.

It would be called the True

Democratic Party and would have to file nominating petitions by August. Those who lost Tuesday would be ineligible for such a ticket.

GC Campus gets $1 million

By Bill Milligan
Staff writer

BELLEfonte — One million dollars in emergency repairs to Granite City Campus was approved by the Belleville Area College Board of Trustees Wednesday night.

"The future of Belleville Area College is at the Granite City Campus," said BAC Chancellor Bruce Wassore. "You can quote me on that anytime, anywhere."

The campus may not have a future unless the college can improve maintenance of the old Granite City North High School facility at 4850 Maryville Road. The $1 million project approved last night is an emergency measure. Last November, a proposed $6.5 million increase in building and education tax limits was roundly defeated by voters in the BAC service region.

Half that money was earmarked for repairs to the Granite City Campus.

Money for the $1 million project is coming from the college's education fund and portions of a $2 million general fund balance.

BAC trustees hope the repairs will shore up the Granite City facility over the next four years. The money allows for emergency repairs on the roof over the school's vocational and shop areas, administrative offices and library. Also included are repair and replacement of the school's 16 rooftop air-conditioning units.

Also part of the project will be improved drainage for the campus, especially in student parking areas. Repairs will also include the east and west walls, where paint is scaling off.

Trustees studied a school safety tax levy which would allow them to raise taxes five cents per $100 assessed valuation for one year without voter approval.

Statewide, 13 of 39 community college districts have levied such property tax increases during the two years since passage by the Illinois General Assembly.

BAC trustees did not favor the proposal. Lifespan work could start as early as the end of this month, BAC officials said.

Pharmacists stress poison prevention

March 16-22 marks the 25th annual observance of National Poison Prevention Week and the Metro-East Pharmacists Association is reminding everyone that many of its members will be promoting poison prevention.

Pharmacists are available at each pharmacy to answer any questions concerning poison prevention. In addition, many pharmacies have informational literature on a variety of topics regarding the theme, "Lock up poisons; prevent tragedy."

IPECAC SYRUP is an effective antidote that is available in the pharmacy, but consult a pharmacist or doctor before administering Ipecac syrup, a spokesman stressed.

He added: "Childhood poisonings continue to pose a major health problem. Hospital emergency rooms and poison control centers will treat an estimated 130,000 children in 1986 for accidental ingestions."

"The major products involved in poisonings or ingestions are medications, plants, and household cleaning products. A major cause of accidental ingestions is carelessness.

"A big factor in reducing the potential dangers of poisonings is the increased awareness of adults and children."

"Listed below are seven steps to observe to reduce the risk of accidental ingestion."

1. Always return to safe (fully safe) storage any substance that's dangerous and may attract a child's curiosity.
2. Keep all products in their original containers.
3. Destroy old products.
4. Use child-resistant closures on medication when children are present.
5. Never call medicine "candy."
6. Have all medications properly labeled.
7. Clean out your medicine cabinet periodically.

Early dismissal at 3 schools in Madison slated

Blair, Harris and Louis Baer Schools in Madison Unit District 12 will have an early dismissal at 2 p.m. Tuesday, March 25, and Thursday, March 27. Faculty members of kindergarten through fifth grade will meet with consultants and representatives of the D.C. Heath and Houghton Mifflin publishing companies to review their reading series.

The Madison district teachers in K-6 have been studying reading projects as a part of the Reading Improvement Program.

A teachers' committee of 20 has developed the philosophy and objectives to improve reading instruction, looked at the testing program to determine which skills are tested at which level, and developed a comprehensive evaluation form to evaluate each publisher's series as to meeting Madison's standards.

Eight publishers' reading series have been evaluated and the top two were chosen for a final presentation.

After the two presentations, one of the series will be chosen by the entire faculty for implementation in the next school year.

The reading committee will be working this summer to develop a reading curriculum that will utilize the new series, Dolores Folkerts, curriculum director, said.

Pontoon sees I-255 opportunities

By JOAN PACE

Completion of Interstate 255 will provide unique possibilities for development of the Pontoon Beach area, according to area planning officials.

Representatives of the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission indicated to Pontoon Beach Mayor Glen Wilson and village board members last week that Pontoon Beach will be in a "very formidable position" because of interchanges of new I-255 at I-270, Illinois 111 and Illinois 162.

"SOME OBJECTIVES Pontoon Beach will have to consider in the future will be the best use of land within the interchange areas, protection of the highway flow, providing motorist needs, and enhancing the physical appearance of the area," said Franz Krantz, transportation planner, SIMARPC.

"These guidelines are generally established within zoning and land use ordinances."

Krantz said planning will be vital, in order to realize and then follow through on planning for the full potential of interchange development.

"PONTON BEACH will need to prepare itself by planning before development has a chance to take hold."

"There will be policies to take into consideration, and legitimate concerns to take into consideration," said Joseph Doughney, deputy director, SIMARPC.

"It takes some resolve to plan before development takes place, but a lack of it would prove undesirable, primarily because of the concern for balance."

VILLAGE ATTORNEY Keith Jensen said Pontoon Beach officials met with SIMARPC in order to look ahead as to the potential of the area.

"I think the SIMARPC representatives gave us some food for thought / some ideas of the areas or concerns we will want to investigate," said Jensen.

Democrats shouldn't be worried

By Jack C. Ventimiglia

Executive editor GRANITE CITY - Two of the three persons endorsed by the Madison County Democratic Central Committee lost in Tuesday's primary. But that's nothing to worry about, said the Central Committee Chairman Mac Warfield.

The committee backed U.S. Rep. Mel Price, D-Belleville, for Congress; Granite City Police Lt. Col. Robert Astorian for sheriff; and Harry A. Briggs for regional superintendent of schools.

Price lost in Madison County to County Auditor Pete Fields by a 442-vote margin; Astorian lost by a 391-vote margin to Bob Churchill; Briggs won by 513-vote margin over his nearest competitor, Gilbert Walmsley.

The margin of loss in the Price-Fields race is not a serious problem for the committee, Warfield said.

"We figured it would be close with Mel Price, with Pete coming from Madison County," Warfield said. "We were hoping to break even."

The loss by Astorian is also no indication of the committee having trouble delivering votes, Warfield said.

"It was a real close election for the whole county" in the sheriff's race, Warfield said. "It was his (Astorian's) first time out in politics."

Though there were two setbacks, the party will turn out in November against the Republicans, Warfield said.

"I would think so," he said. "The party always gets together."

Fields facing the future

No "sour grapes" attitude was expressed by Madison County Auditor Pete Fields. In Tuesday's primary he faced U.S. Rep. Mel Price, D-Belleville, and lost. He didn't try to lay blame for the loss at anyone's doorstep. Instead, he praised the loyalty of those who brought him more than 40 percent of the vote against the institution that is Mel Price. That same loyalty allowed Fields to beat Price in Madison County.

Few political pundits supported Fields in Madison County. The best-known politicians rode the Price bandwagon.

The same is true in St. Clair County, where County Board Chairman Jerry Costello led a vigorous drive to retain Price despite the defection to the Fields' camp of East St. Louis Mayor Carl Officer. In the face of overwhelming odds, Fields made a good showing at the polls.

"We did it with the people," he said, sounding like a winner.

If a party member goes against the party's leaders there can be negative ramifications for the rebel. How the county's party leaders react to Fields remains to be seen, especially in light of the support he got from the public in the primary, but Fields isn't looking for problems.

He ran a clean campaign and is keeping that spirit alive. Rather than making comments that might keep the party divided when November arrives, he said he believes the party will come together to re-elect Price.

Given his willingness to take on tough competition, his personal appeal and public support, Fields has the powers that be has provided him with name recognition and experience that might one day help him reach for the type of star that this time slipped away.

A question of responsibility

Some council members were miffed. They didn't like what City Comptroller Joe Miklovic did.

Miklovic opted to pay for a service. He said it was a service needed immediately, just like a furnace breaking down needs immediate service.

This department has been working long hours to get information into the new computer system. The information must be in the system so that sewer bills can be issued on time. The service he needed was part-time, temporary help with the computer. Council members agreed Miklovic needed the help. But they objected that persons were hired without their approval.

They questioned the man who handles the city's budget about his decision, but they weren't too loud. They know the overtime his department has put in. They approved paying the help.

But the situation raised a question from Mayor Von Dee Cruse. He asked who is responsible for the city's day-to-day operations, as exemplified by this case of a department head needing to spend money before there is time to consult the council.

The question seemed rhetorical and was not answered.

We hope it will be.

Redevelopment not easy

Redeveloping downtown Granite City won't be easy.

All council members know the proposed shopping center and other downtown projects will result only from hard work.

There might also be some risk, as heard at last night's City Council meeting.

Second Ward Alderman Pat Schuman said tax increment financing bonds might have to be backed by the city. If a developer went into default, the taxpayer's would lose.

The concern is real, but not great. The city does not have to back the bonds. It wants to back them to help sales, the city would have to carefully select the developer. Default seems extremely remote.

Regarding that concern, it's a challenge worth facing.

It's long past time to take action downtown. A drive through that area reveals what more than a decade of playing it safe has meant for property values and business growth.

Fourth Ward Alderwoman Sharon Perjak's expressed both concern for the city and determination to replace with action the negativity and platitudes of the past.

Turmoil on 1986 state ticket

"A fine mess you've gotten us into now," as Hardy might say to Laurel, if they were Democrats in Illinois this year.

Gov. James Thompson, the Republican nominee, hasn't yet been elected to a fourth term. He'll have to wait until November for that. But unless a miracle of some kind can be achieved, the turmoil about the Democratic ballot may prove fatal to that party's prospects.

Much remains to be decided, but Thompson's opponent, Adlai Stevenson, said flatly yesterday there won't be a Stevenson-Fairchild pairing against Thompson-Ryan for governor and lieutenant governor. Either Stevenson will find some way to boot Fairchild out, or Stevenson himself "will not serve" on the ticket, he said.

There will be ample time to review just how good or bad various candidates are, but already it appears the Democratic Party faces an awkward posture in the general election. Stevenson said he may try to get some of his party's nominees to

"We have to do this. We have to put something downtown in this city to attract people."

This City Council can accomplish what past councils have failed to do. In a spirit of cooperativeness, this council can turn around the downtown area.

Already the desire to improve downtown is translating into something this city has lacked — positiveness from the community about the community.

"There are some tremendous comments" about downtown development, 3rd Ward Alderman Paul Fisk said. "This is probably one of the most constructive things to happen in Granite City in a long, long time."

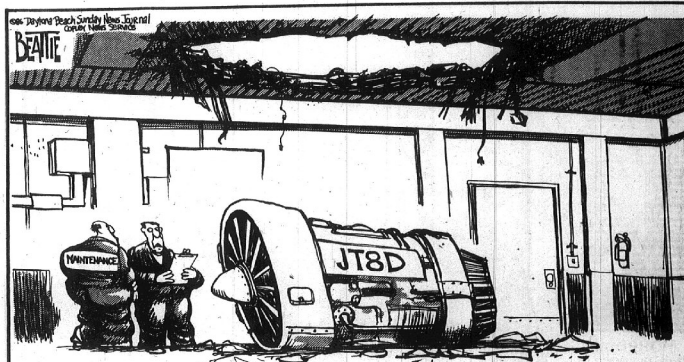

In the short term, Fisk said, persons will work in construction for the project. In the long term, there will be retail employment.

A multi-million-dollar development proposal must be scrutinized by all who represent the public. But we assert the spirit of such discussion should remain in the realm of how to make the project work rather than leading to an alternative that leaves downtown without a future.

create a third party for the November balloting. It is a shame, because a head-to-head Stevenson-Thompson clash could have been an interesting and close contest, with many issues explored in detail during the more than seven months remaining in the campaign.

Apathy obviously cannot be tolerated in future primary elections. There appeared no way such capable candidates as George Sangmeister and Aurelia Pucinski could have lost to two unknowns (with simpler names) who didn't seem to be trying very hard. But it happened, and the expression on Stevenson's face made it crystal clear he and his associates have suffered a severe wound.

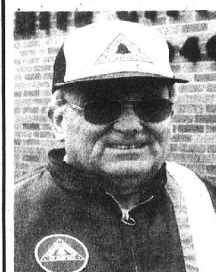

It may not be a mortal injury. Paul Lenz, a former Alton mayor, won re-election a few years ago as a write-in candidate after being ruled off the ballot. But third-party approaches are difficult in Illinois and Adlai Stevenson admittedly is faced with shouldering the burden of a massive handicap.

"I don't get it... it says here on the schedule this aircraft engine isn't due for inspection for another two weeks."

Readers React

Were you surprised or disappointed by any of the results of Tuesday's primary election?

Norman Fifield, Granite City

"I really expected Mel Price to get beat. I think Price is much, much too old. I always voted for him, but I voted for Fields this time. It's a shame he got in; we need a change."

Gerald Mayberry, Granite City

"I'm glad Price got back in. He has the experience and ability and, with his staff, he'll still do a good job for the district. I think he's going to have a battle in November and his age will definitely be an issue."

Royce Timmons, Mitchell

"I thought Price might get back in. I voted for him; he's done a lot for me. I'm a senior citizen and I think he can still do his job. I think it (the November election) will be tough, but I think Price will pull through."

County forcing reduction of bus routes

To the Editor:

I have read with amazement articles concerning Madison County Transit Board Chairman Bill Haine's comments concerning the hiring of a new executive director of Bi-State Development Agency.

Mr. Haine and the Madison County Transit board are doing exactly what they are accusing Bi-State of doing — not being accountable to the taxpayer.

Mr. Haine is spending millions of dollars of taxpayers' money to build a new garage in Madison County and buying new buses at a time when federal money is questionable. Did he consult or take into account the taxpayers? No.

Did Mr. Haine and the transit board consult the citizens of Granite City in connection with the removal of the Bi-State lines in that city? No.

Government officials indicated they knew nothing of this change when asked about it by citizens of Granite City, while they were aware of it all along.

The officials have tried to make it appear Bi-State was taking the buses off; and all the while, it was Mr. Haine and the transit board.

Did Mr. Haine listen to the people of Granite City when a petition with 900 names was presented to keep the Bi-State service intact? No.

You can be assured Mr. Haine won't give you the service you now have. So, who is accountable to the taxpayer?

Who is irresponsible? Who cares about the taxpayers? Who is trying to bankrupt the region and drain the taxpayer?

Who is trying to get his name in the paper, trying to get publicity on the premise he is thinking of the taxpayer — not Bi-State, but Mr. Haine.

He reminds me of a little kid — if you don't play my way, I will pick up my marbles and go home.

One more bit of food for thought, Mr. Taxpayer. Who is thinking of taking off some of your runs in Madison County? Not Bi-State, but the Madison County Transit board.

Taxpayers in Madison County, you may be next without adequate bus service.

In June, approximately 20 additional runs will be eliminated.

Services to seniors may have to be cut

To the Editor:

The first impact of the Gramm-Rudman Deficit Reduction Bill resulted in a 4.3 percent cut in Older Americans Act programs throughout Illinois as of March 1 but with minimal impact on direct services to Illinois seniors at this time.

Federal Older Americans Act funds are provided to the state's 13 Area Agencies on Aging through the Illinois Department on Aging and are used to provide such services as case management, information and referral, congregate and home delivered meals, transportation and services provided by senior centers.

The reduction represents a loss of $1.3 million for programs and must be absorbed by the area agencies and their grantees from now until Sept. 30, the end of federal fiscal 1986.

The agencies are adjusting to the loss in service funds by taking administrative measures that will not cause a hardship to the senior citizens who benefit from these programs.

While reassuring seniors that we are attempting to maintain services for the next several months, our association strongly emphasizes the need for public awareness regarding possible reductions in the future, as early as Oct. 1.

Signed into law last December, the Gramm-Rudman legislation requires that the annual U.S. deficit be reduced in large installments over the next five years, to balance the budget by 1991. It provides for automatic domestic and defense cuts affecting about half of the federal budget in any year that Congress and the president cannot meet the deficit targets.

Director Janet S. Ottwell of the Illinois Department on Aging has said the legislation does not affect funding which the state provides for its in-home care program.

"Fortunately, the Department on Aging's state-funded Community Care Program, which represents two-thirds of our total budget and provides in-home and adult care services to more than 23,000 Illinois seniors, will not be affected by the federal reductions," said Ottwell.

It is still too early to tell what the automatic reductions might mean for federal Older Americans Act programs in fiscal 1987, but estimates have ranged anywhere from 12 percent to 25.5 percent.

While the Administration's budget contains no reductions, it is expected that negotiations will take place between now and Oct. 1.

The Area Agencies on Aging are each developing information that will illustrate how the 4.3 percent cut, as well as possible future reductions, could affect older people in their area of the state.

This information will be shared with the public during annual planning hearings conducted by the area agencies this spring.

We encourage the public to take the opportunity to attend a public hearing in this area to find out how local programs for the aging could be affected.

What we are most concerned about is the potential 25.5 percent reduction which the House Select Committee on Aging has estimated for possible implementation on Oct. 1, 1986.

To illustrate the potential cuts in statewide services, 25.5 percent would mean $9,749 less service units of information and referral, 336,346 less transportation rides, 669,889 fewer in-home delivered meals, and 1,498,758 less meals served to seniors in congregate settings.

Fine program, but not many attended

To the Editor:

Prompted by the advertisement in the March 13 edition of the Press-Record, I attended the "Name the Downtown Granite City" contest celebration. The event was well programmed, and the music was enjoyable. Shirley Adams from WGNU was an enthusiastic master of ceremonies.

While there was one big missing link in the program, the lack of attendance by the business community, council members and the elected city and township officials. The lack of interest from the would-be supporters of the proposed downtown mall was a great disappointment.

Madison County Board candidates nominated

Suit by faculty member upheld

The Illinois Human Rights Commission has upheld a finding by a judge that SIUE discriminated against a professor by denying him a promotion.

The commission on March 10 upheld a 1985 order by an administrative law judge, said attorney Bruce Goldstein.

Goldstein argued that Kuppamma Krishnan, an assistant professor, was denied a promotion to associate professor because he is from India. Krishnan teaches at SIUE's East St. Louis campus.

Goldstein said a promotion decision by Vice President and Provost Barbara Teters was "completely arbitrary and inconsistent with his high level of credentials."

Teters "minimized Prof. Krishnan's qualifications because she viewed him as inferior because of his national origin," Goldstein said.

MORRIS MILES of Mitchell has been renominated in County Board District 16.

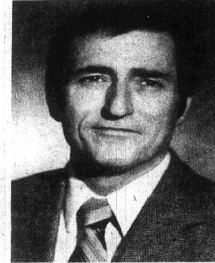

FRANK LAUB was the County Board District 19 Democratic nominee chosen Tuesday.

NELSON HAGAUER was renominated without opposition in County Board District 20.

VASIL EFTIMOFF won Democratic renomination Tuesday in County Board District 21.

DONALD REA has been renominated as a Democrat in Madison County Board District 25.

Prather parents to elect

Nominations for various offices were made at the March meeting of the Prather School Parent-Teacher Association.

Among those nominated to serve in 1986-87 were: Joy Bohnenstiel as president, Jolene Terrell as vice president, Susie Holik recording secretary, Alice Perkins corresponding secretary and Jean Forrest as treasurer.

An election is scheduled at the April meeting, when additional nominations may be submitted by members, Bohnenstiel said.

Prather PTA has recorded 100 percent membership of faculty members for the third consecutive year, it was announced.

A "safe street" project is being started involving the schools: Pam Partney and Cathy Dineff were chosen to represent Prather at the organizational meeting.

A PTA life membership was presented to Bohnenstiel and distinguished service scrolls were presented to all officers by Nancy Marti and Phyllis Pickrell.

Certificates of recognition were awarded to Sharon Proender for Reading Is Fundamental, and Alice Perkins, Debbie Passig and Melva Winnie.

School officials have approved hiring a storyteller as an added treat this year, members were advised.

The award for best attendance went to Judy Russell's third grade class.

GC crime rate down in February

GRANITE CITY — The city's over-all crime rate decreased last month over February 1985, according to Police Chief Bill Harris.

However, crimes of assault and larceny rose over last year. THIRTY-TWO cases of assault were reported last month compared to 21 cases in February 1985. Larceny cases rose to 54 from 49.

Two areas of crime that decreased greatly last month were burglary (29 last month compared to 43 in 1985) and auto burglary (10 last month compared to 21 in February last year).

The total number of crimes reported dropped last month to 131 from 141.

THE TOTAL for automobile accidents was lower last month. Police tallied 102 traffic crashes last month compared to 141 accidents in the same month in 1985.

However, arrests for February increased to 303, compared to 843. The police department answered 1,703 calls last month.

BURGLAR TAKES HANDGUN,

VCR, RINGS, CAMERA, CASH
Donald Lucido of 2254 Grand Ave. reported March 19 a burglar ransacked his home and took a video cassette recorder, a .38 caliber revolver, six rings, a camera and $500 in cash.

Value of the missing items totals over $1,300.

MAN SERVED 2 WARRANTS

Johnny Ray Carr, 30, Memphis, Tenn., was charged with resisting arrest March 18 after he allegedly fled on foot from police at Denver Street and Nevada Avenue. He was later served two felony warrants on charges of aggravated battery.

FIRE DOES $800 DAMAGE

A grease fire did $800 damage March 18 to the home of Barbara Rainwater of 1100 27th St. The fire started on the stove and spread to the range hood and wall of the kitchen, authorities said.

step," said Alan Orthals, director of economic development.

ORTHALS SAID he is making a list of 100 developers in the Midwest who build shopping centers, as possible developers in the downtown area.

He estimated a public hearing will be held in mid-May, with the tax increment district and financing program established around Memorial Day.

Several council members said the financing program would bring jobs and economic development back to the city.

"I see a lot of temporary construction jobs and a lot of permanent jobs when the retail shops move in," said 3rd Ward Alderman Paul Fisk. "I can see nothing but good coming out of it."

"WE NEED to work together to make this program succeed," said 1st Ward Alderman Casmer Skubis. "If we eliminate the negative, we won't have to accentuate the positive because the positive will be there."

"We have to put something downtown to attract people back to our city," said 4th Ward Alderman Sharon Perjak.

The council also approved an ordinance to repeal tax abatement in the proposed downtown redevelopment area. The abatement would negate tax increment financing.

No funds expected for civic center authority

Members of Madison County's new civic center authority learned Monday that no state funds are likely to be available for projects during the 1987 state fiscal year which begins July 1, 1986.

Betty Hoxsey, program director of the Civic Center Support Program of the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs, told authority members that, because of declining revenues for the program, no new project proposals will be considered for the coming fiscal year. The state program is funded by taxes on horse racing revenues.

Destruction of the Arlington Park race track near Chicago by fire has cut the program's revenues by 20 percent and legislation has also decreased tax revenues, Hoxsey said.

Present cash flow is not sufficient to support new projects, she said.

"The legislature will have to come with more revenue if they want the program to go forward," she said.

Pending federal tax reform legislation also poses a threat to the program, which would compete with existing private enterprises, would not be favorably considered. Economic feasibility is the key factor in evaluations, Hoxsey said; projects must be self-supporting or "very close to it."

The state is not anxious to fund a facility which would become a burden to the community, Hoxsey noted.

State financing of a project is limited to 75 percent of total costs, or $20 million, whichever is less.

The local authority was organized in January. It will screen local requests for funding under the program for a variety of "civic center" purposes, which could include theaters, arts centers, convention centers and sports facilities.

The authority will hold title to a project until state-issued bonds funding the project are retired over a period of 20 or 30 years.

Representatives of the Wilkey Arts Center in Edwardsville and Lewis and Clark Community College in Goddard expressed interest in seeking funds under the program.

Hoxsey said proposals will be evaluated on their own merits. Approval of one project proposed by a particular authority would not preclude approval of another work proposal from the same authority, she said.

She advised, however, that projects which would overlap services of other civic center projects would not be favorably considered. Economic feasibility is the key factor in evaluations, Hoxsey said; projects must be self-supporting or "very close to it."

The state is not anxious to fund a facility which would become a burden to the community, Hoxsey noted.

filled folly," Stevenson said the political faction is radically right-wing and bigoted. He assailed Fairchild and Hart as unqualified for statewide offices.

GOVERNOR and lieutenant governor nominees run as a team in the November general election, but Stevenson made it clear he would never conduct such a campaign.

He did not announce specific plans to resign as a candidate, however, saying the status of the two he opposes will be checked for possible legal challenges. He said the "integrity of the Democratic Party" is at stake.

The angry Stevenson said at a televised press conference, "I care too much about my party and the state of Illinois to lend any credence to these people by running with them."

HOW IT HAPPENED is the subject of much speculation.

Their attractive "mainstream" names, their top position on the ballot, a tight turnout, and low voter awareness of the party's slate candidates are being mentioned. The state central committee is said to have been overconfident and convinced the opposing candidates had no chance.

Also losing in the Democratic primary was State Treasurer

General Neil Hartigan, 526,855 to 323,785 for Martin Oberman; and State Comptroller Roland Clark, 627,085 to 183,452 for Donald Bliss.

Winner of the Republican U.S. Senate nomination was State Rep. Judy Koehler. She defeated Governor Ramsey Jr., 266,050 to 217,347.

REPUBLICAN state candidates nominated without opposition were James R. Thompson, governor; George H. Ryan, lieutenant governor; Jim Edgar, secretary of state; James T. Ryan, attorney general; J. Michael Houston, for the United States District Court; and Adeline Geokaris, for state comptroller.

Merger

listened to testimony given by about 15 residents.

Most of the more than 125 people attended the hearings, which testified before the Madison School District.

The possibility of overcrowded schools, a probable higher tax rate for Madison residents — and a general attitude that the size of a school district has no bearing on the quality of education — seemed of most concern to those addressing the committee.

A REVISED school district proposal will be put before the legislature no longer requires enrollment criteria as the key element in school consolidation, but puts the quality of education uppermost, along with a curriculum linked to college entrance requirements, Briggs explained.

The school Reorganization Committee, however, was formed under the original law, passed by the legislature in 1984, and still must function under its guidelines,

Briggs said.

A referendum on any proposed merger must be approved by residents in both school districts or will not take effect, the county educator emphasized.

Locher absent

Special Prosecutor Bruce D. Locher failed to appear Monday for a hearing on pre-trial motions in the assessment reduction case involving former Madison County Supervisor of Assessments James W. Barton and five others.

The hearing proceeded without the prosecutor.

Associate Judge Charles V. Romani Jr. had denied a motion filed by Locher to continue the hearing set for 9:30 a.m. in Edwardsville.

When Locher did not appear by 10:40 a.m., the hearing proceeded without him. Romani said he considered Locher "a little impatient" to assume he would grant a continuance on the basis of a motion the judge received only Friday.

Romani said the Monday hearing was set in response to Locher's request for early disposition of pending motions.

In seeking the continuance, Locher had cited scheduled court appearances in Springfield.

Contacted after the hearing, Locher said his absence was detrimental to the prosecution. He said he asked for the hearing, but was not consulted about a time or date for it. He said he mailed his motion for a continuance on Wednesday.

At the Monday hearing, Romani denied a motion by Locher to disqualify attorney Ben Allen from representing both Merle Bassett and Robert Quinn, who are among the defendants.

The judge also heard arguments from Locher to sever the prosecutions of Quinn, Fred Dick, Adler Bassett and Gerald Bassett from the others. Romani earlier ordered the severance of the prosecution of defendant Beverly Delaney.

The other defendant in the case is Barton.

Allen denied any present conflict of interest in representing both of his clients and said they were satisfied with his representation. Should a conflict arise later, he said he could be dealt with at that time, he said.

Allen argued that trying Quinn and Bassett together and with the others could prejudice their rights to fair trials. They were charged in a relatively small number of the 46 counts in the case, he said.

Attorneys for Finn and Gerald Bassett concurred in Allen's arguments. Romani said he would rule later this week on the severance motions.

The judge said a hearing on other pending pre-trial motions would be held within a few weeks and said he hopes to begin trials in May.

Psalm 126:5... "They that sow in tears shall reap in joy."

There are very few of us who do not understand the law of sowing and reaping. We plant seeds in the ground and we reap a harvest. Of course, we understand that we must water, fertilize and have patience until harvest time. There are not many things which we can sow and expect to reap in a single day.

However, there is something very different and very exciting in this Scripture. We know we plant corn, we harvest corn, plant wheat — harvest wheat. Whatever we sow, it will grow. But when we sow tears, tears, and harvest joy! For whatever purpose those tears are shed, for however many tears are shed, the harvest is going to be joy!

God has power to turn tears to joy. He will do it for you. All things work for good to them who love the Lord.

Give your love to God, today.

Q. I set up an IRA account a few years ago and have regularly made contributions to my account. However, I can't spare the money this year for an IRA contribution. Do you have any suggestions?

A. If you have a generous employer you might share your situation and concern with your employer. Perhaps your employer might grant you an "IRA bonus," with the understanding that you will use it as such. The bonus would be taxable but you'll make up for the increased liability with your IRA deduction. Or, another approach might be if your parents were interested in reducing the size of their estate, they might give you the $2000. As long as you've earned at least that much in 1985, you can contribute it to your IRA and take the deduction.

GCHS sports' silent partner

I've been going to the high school sports banquets for two years now, writing stories about who said what about the season and so forth.

In my articles I have referred to the event as "the Booster Club banquet." A caller last week said I had overlooked the Alumni "G" Club, a group separate from the Booster Club.

The Boosters and the Red Peppers do all kinds of good things for the high school.

The caller promised to give me some background about the "silent" organization. It's worth sharing.

The Alumni "G" Club's lone activity is those banquets. It's a tradition much like the Wardrobes are during basketball season. But while the Wardrobes are just a couple of seasons old, the banquets have been a Granite City standard for 30 years.

The Alumni "G" Club is the group which is responsible. The club pays for the athletes' dinner. The club is an anonymous group which uses the name "Alumni 'G' Club" solely for identification on its bank account. The group, which was founded by four people, has no officers and the banquets are the only activity it sponsors.

The first banquet was held in November 1955 to honor the GCHS football team as "a gesture of appreciation for all members for their hard work."

Money to pay for the event came from the sale of tickets. Enough tickets were sold, so the organization broke even.

However, the group realized that relying on just sale of tickets would not take too much time and effort.

So the group decided to call on local businesses and individuals to contribute to the sponsorship of the banquets.

The four original members would go out three or four times each year and solicit funds or find a sponsor. If not enough money was raised, the Alumni "G" Club would make up the difference.

Fortunately, this never happened, but on one occasion a sponsor was not secured until the day of the banquet.

It was 1963 when the Alumni "G" Club decided to open its membership. More than 200 letters were mailed but the response was poor.

Seeking to keep the banquets alive and battling the continued expenses, area service clubs were asked to get involved.

There were no takers. Another idea was to ask related businesses (i.e. real estate agencies, banks, etc.) to join together and sponsor a banquet.

This plan, too, met with little or no response and the idea was dropped.

By 1977, the group realized the old system was no longer feasible. Two of the original members had died and there were now two high schools. Something had to be done so the athletic banquets had to be discontinued.

Letters were again drafted and pleas were made for support to expand the "G" Club or drop its services.

Nineteen people attended an emergency meeting in March, and the club was revived.

A membership campaign was launched to expand the club to 40 members and a $20-a-year membership fee was established. Over the years, the membership of the Alumni "G" Club has averaged about 35.

The club has even established four annual awards given at the banquets:

- the Cameron Van Buskirk Award to the outstanding freshman basketball player.
- the Pat Rich Award to the outstanding scholar athlete.
- the Lawrence McCauley Award to the outstanding freshman wrestler.
- and the Jon Tarpo Award to the outstanding lineman in football.

The Alumni "G" Club is more than just a name on a bank account. It is a group of people who make their feelings known in a tangible way by sponsoring the awards banquet for local athletes and cheerleaders.

In their own special way, the Alumni "G" Club is saying to GCHS athletes, "Thanks for your hard work. It doesn't matter if you win or lose. This night is yours."

The Alumni "G" Club is a silent partner whose actions speak volumes.

Warriors prepare for rites of summer

Executive Sports Editor
GRANITE CITY — Bob Stegemeier talked this week about his Warrior baseball team with a touch of anticipation in his voice. Like a kid waiting for Christmas Day, Stegemeier wants to unwrap the packages. The reason is simple: The Warriors appear to be surrounded with potential this year.

There is experience, as several juniors got their feet wet last year. There is also depth at a variety of positions. However, there are also some voids to be filled. But the potential is present.

Thirteen lettermen, including four senior pitchers, head the early season drills. Granite City will open its season (weather permitting) with a doubleheader against Washington, Mo., the Class 4A state champions in football, on Saturday, March 22. The first game begins at noon.

"We are not really a rookie ball club," Stegemeier said. "A lot of the kids played some last year. We have a little depth. Hopefully we should progress during the season like I think we are capable of."

Granite City will be trying to put together another 20-win season. The Warriors finished at 20-15 last year, but still have bitter memories of the 3-2 loss to East St. Louis in the regionals. The Warriors were up 2-0 with one out in the seventh inning.

"They were our nemesis," Stegemeier said of the Flyers.

This year, the Warrior coach sees the Southwestern Conference as a possible logjam. Even with the loss of Bobby DeLoach, East Side should be strong. Belleville East, the defending sectional champions, also will be heard from.

Granite City hopes to make its presence felt, too.

"We have a mixture of experience and some youth, which is always a good sign," Stegemeier said. "Last year we had a lot of sophomores see some action. Hopefully we can mesh together."

Leading the way will be three senior hurlers, all of whom saw action last year. Right-hander Eric Gray was the staff's biggest winner (5-4, 2.25 ERA). Another right-hander is a slimmed-down Mark Bowen. He had one win and one complete game last season. Stegemeier is counting on Bowen as one of his mainstays.

Jeff Zukas, a lefthander, pitched well late in the season and was 2-0 as a junior. Another senior hurler is Matt Roe. He is a reliever who also can catch and play the infield. He batted .246 last season.

"These four all had some success last year," Stegemeier said. "The important thing is they all should know how to pitch instead of just being throwers."

Another senior, Tim Stanton, also saw action last season and should be called on again this year.

Backing up the upperclassmen are four juniors: Scott LeVault, Jay Valbert, Mike Georgeff and Darin Hendrickson.

Matt Roe and senior Dennis Gaudreault were voted by their teammates as co-captains.

Stegemeier said it was the first time in several years he allowed his team to pick a captain.

during a game with the Redbirds last season. Roe is one of this season's co-captains.

Roe will most likely open the season behind the plate, a position where the Warriors are deep. Other catchers on the squad are senior Doug Partney, Dave Bamber and Lance Jakich, both juniors.

At first base, candidates for the starting job are senior Steve Davis (.238) and Jim Chomko (.302). LeVault and Zukas can also play the position.

Granite City last year's starting first baseman, Pat Cathey. He hit .376 and had 23

RBI's.

At second base, Gaudreault appears to have the inside track in the early going. But other candidates are junior Charlie Collins and Chomko, who played the position some last season.

Moving over to shortstop, Granite City has some depth here. The players penciled in as possible starters are all juniors. Billy Moore (.325), Todd Hinteiser (.296) and Jamie Hogan.

At third base, it might be either. (See WARRIORS, Page 12A)

Trojans need pitching

MADISON — If pitching is indeed 90 percent of baseball, it could be a long season for the Madison Trojans.

First-year coach Marcus Spraggins is in search of some pitchers who can get the ball over the plate. So far, he hasn't been as successful as he had hoped.

"We've got a couple of guys with pretty good arms, but when it comes to getting the ball over the plate, well, so far, we're not too good," said Spraggins, who replaces Ron Crader as the Trojans' field manager.

Spraggins figures on Patrick Glasper as his No. 1 hurler. The senior right-hander won some games for the Trojans last year and is the only moundman with significant varsity experience.

"We're hurting on the mound," Spraggins said. "It's the most important part of baseball but it's not one of our strong points."

Other candidates to pitch include Lester Buckles, a junior right-hander, and two freshman right-handers, Lavell Garrett and Andre Mosby.

"I'm trying to develop those two into good pitchers, but our main problem right now is throwing strikes," Spraggins said.

Eisewhere, Spraggins is hoping the offense and defense will be good enough to partially offset the question marks on the mound. The Trojans will lose five players from last year's 7-16 squad, but have a returning nucleus of catcher John Browley, shortstop Darnell Marshall, first baseman Dennis Valters and Glasper. John Spivey is another player Spraggins is counting on, mainly as a designated hitter. All of those players are seniors.

"Our big problem is we're very young," Spraggins said. "We have a number of freshmen and sophomores in the lineup, and the big thing this year is to get them some experience. We haven't been

GC softballers are versatile

GRANITE CITY — Cardinal manager Whitey Herzog likes players who can play several different positions. It gives him lots of room to do all the maneuvering he is so fond of during a game.

Jim Davis thinks he is in a similar spot this season. His Granite City girls softball team may not be ready to win the National League pennant, but Davis thinks he has an advantage in that he has "12 or 13" players who can play different positions.

"That's the big thing we have working in our favor," said Davis, beginning his third season as coach of the Warriors. "We should be able to move the girls around to different spots to fill our needs."

The unpredictability of the spring weather has kept the Warriors from getting in too much practice time, and yesterday's scheduled opener at Civic Memorial was rained out. That game has been rescheduled for tomorrow at 4 p.m. in Bethalto.

"I'm kind of glad that one was rained out," Davis said. "We're a young team and I would like as much time as possible to get ready."

The Warriors were 10-15 and advanced to the regional finals last season, but lost three key players from the starting lineup: third baseman Anne Puhse, shortstop

Jim Davis

Kathy Hutchings and pitcher Michelle Morgan.

"We're going to miss those three quite a bit," Davis said.

A good season this year could make expectations high for next year as well. There are only three seniors on this year's squad. They are catcher Karen Sykes, first baseman Alicia Melton and pitcher Amy Moss. Melton can also play the outfield.

Moss, a right-hander, is a transfer from Belleville West and Davis is optimistic about her potential.

Madison drops meet to O'Fallon runners

The Madison Trojans dropped a dual track meet against O'Fallon last week. The final point totals were 96 for O'Fallon and 49 for the Trojans.

The Trojans won the 3200 relay with a time of 9:25.89 with a team of Ricky Ball, Carlos McMillion, Otis Ware and Joseph Starnes.

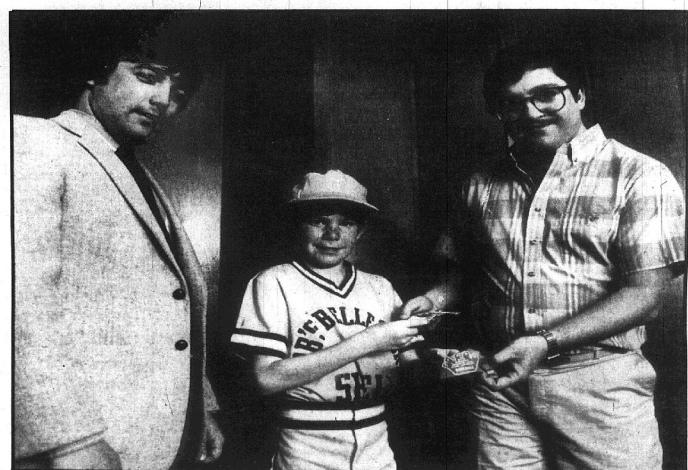

Other individual champions included Starnes in the 800 meter run with a time of 2:17.2. Michael Taylor won the 300-meter low hurdles with a time of 43.4 seconds, and Theodis Kemp won the shot put competition with a throw of 42 feet, 5 inches.

"It was a little tough going against O'Fallon in a dual meet," said Coach Charles Steptoe.

"Jerseyville was supposed to have been there also, but they cancelled out at the last minute. O'Fallon has a very strong squad with a lot of kids out on the team. But we made a pretty good showing."

The Trojans had their first home meet of the season rained out Tuesday, a tri-meet against Tard and Cahokia. Steptoe has tentatively rescheduled that for next Tuesday at 4 p.m. The Trojans are scheduled to run today at 4 p.m. in Highland in a quad meet with Highland, Mascoutah and Jerseyville.

"They have another home meet set for Monday at 3:30 p.m. against St. Paul, Breese Central and Lebanon."

GC native is Mr. St. Louis

Mike Robinson of Granite City won the Mr. St. Louis bodybuilding championship March 1 in competition at the Clarion Hotel.

Robinson, 22, also placed second in the Heart of America competition, which includes contestants from throughout the Midwest. Robinson is a member of the Renaissance Health Center.

Robinson also won the Gateway Open six months ago at Kiel Auditorium in St. Louis. He is now qualified to enter into the Mr. America contest.

His goal is to win in the nationals competition, which would qualify him for the world amateur title. Robinson competes in the lightweight division of bodybuilding. He weighs 155 pounds.

At the Mr. St. Louis competition, there was a pre-judging of between 15 and 20 contestants in the afternoon, and eight finalists were chosen to compete that evening.

First through fifth place honorees were awarded, with Robinson taking first. Mike is the son of Pete Robinson, the former track coach at Granite City High School.

Computer history is chapter topic

A program on computers was presented by Linda Koenig for members of Preceptor Beta Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

The group met at the Koenig home, with Marilyn Lumpkins, president, reviewing newly revised sorority city council bylaws and distributing chapter rosters.

Founder's Day material and other information from the sorority's international office were given members, who discussed various service projects.

A financial report was presented by B.J. Jones and plans for an election of officers at the home of Barbara Hente were announced.

After reviewing the history of computers, the hostess described the many variations now used in the workplace.

Applications for home use were discussed and members practiced their computer skills and played games using the computer.

Vicki Barth also attended the meeting.

PAULA BOGOSIAN graduated from Jewish Hospital School of Nursing, St. Louis, March 5. She studied two years at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale and three years at the hospital. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul (Janet) Bogosian, 2570 State St., she is now employed at Jewish Hospital.

Sweetener may reduce cavities

The popular sweetener, aspartame, does not seem to promote tooth decay and may actually decrease a person's risk of developing dental cavities when added to food containing sugar, scientists said at the University of Illinois at Chicago (UIC) this month.

In a pilot study, investigators found that aspartame, marketed under the trade name of NutraSweet, appeared to reduce significantly the cavity-causing potential of foods containing as much as 30 percent sugar.

Iqbal M. Chaudhry, Ph.D., professor of nutrition and oral pathology in the UIC College of Dentistry, said the research involved 60 rats, some of which were given aspartame in their diets, some sugar and some a combination of aspartame and sugar for three months.

The results indicated aspartame—mixed with food to achieve a sweetness equivalent to a concentration of 30 percent sugar—did not cause dental cavities.

In addition, when added to a diet already containing 30 percent sugar to increase the sweetness level to the equivalent of 60 percent sugar, aspartame "drastically reduced" the risks of tooth decay, Chaudhry said.

Reporting his findings at the annual meeting of the American Association for Dental Research in Washington D.C., Chaudhry cautioned his research is still preliminary and not necessarily directly applicable to humans.

"It is not easy to extrapolate the results obtained from animal models to human situations," he said.

Aspartame, a dipeptide that consists of amino acids L-phenylalanine and L-aspartic acid, has an intense sweetness. Its sweetening capacity is equivalent to that of sugar when it is used in amounts with only 1-200th of the caloric value of sugar. The Federal Food and Drug Administration gave final approval to the marketing of aspartame in 1981.

Precisely how aspartame lowers the risk of tooth decay remains unknown, Chaudhry said.

When microorganisms feed on sugar in the mouth they produce lactic acid and dextran, a sticky substance that causes formation of plaque on teeth and allows bacteria to reside on a tooth's surface.

The lactic acid can score the teeth, destroying the enamel covering and promoting tooth decay. As more and more plaque builds on teeth, the acid works longer on a tooth because saliva in the mouth is unable to wash the acid from the plaque.

Previous research has shown that although aspartame is unable to inhibit the production of acid, it does prevent a drop in the hydrogen ion concentration (pH) in the mouth, thereby effectively stopping the action of acid on the teeth, Chaudhry said.

"At this point, we do not know the mechanisms by which the sweetener reduces the incidence of dental caries. Additional studies are being conducted," he said.

AARP sponsors Easter hat parade

An Easter hat parade was sponsored by Granite City Chapter 1340 of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) at the Granite City Township Hall, 2060 Delmar Ave. with 160 persons present.

Prizes for the prettiest, most original, most outstanding and most comical hats were awarded to Maxine Medders, Gertrude Boskey, John Mangiaracino and Glen Medders.

President Juanita Crawley opened the meeting with Chaplain Karmyn Edmonds reciting the opening prayer, followed by the pledge of allegiance.

Secretary Cele Mance read the minutes and Membership Chairman Clarence Hoffman reported seven new members were accepted. New members included Wallace and Iris Gauen, Nelson and Norma Ross, Kenneth and Jewel McGee and Joseph Falovich.

Legislative Chairman Oscar Ash gave a report on legislative matters and reminded everyone to vote in the primary election.

Sunshine Lady Gertrude Boskey reported sending six get well and three sympathy cards.

Berniece Mercer, past president of Chapter 1340, was presented with a certificate of appreciation signed by Ruth Toomey, assistant state director of AARP.

"In recognition of her dedicated services as president, 1984 and 1985," Mrs. Mercer was also presented with a past president pin and a gift by President Crawley.

The guest speaker for the evening was Gail Rogers, whose subject was "Smoking." She warned of the effects of smoking.

The president announced that at the April 9 meeting a representative from Prudential Insurance will explain the AARP Medicare supplement and answer questions. She said there are 41,000 senior citizens in Madison County and 6,000 in Granite City.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Frequently Illinois drivers are stopped in other states and cited for a moving violation. The question then arises as to whether or not a conviction on this charge will be reported back to Illinois. This becomes significant when one considers that a driver in Illinois is only allowed three moving violations within a one-year period of time.

Illinois is one of twenty-eight states which belong to the Driver License Compact, which is an agreement among these jurisdictions to report traffic offenses to the driver's home state. The purpose of this Compact is to allow the Secretary of State in any given jurisdiction to be aware of violations committed in another state when issuing or renewing a license. Thus if an Illinois resident is arrested for a moving violation in another state and is convicted on this charge, this conviction will be reported back to his home state.

All the states who are members of this Drivers License Compact have agreed to give the same effect to the conduct reported by the other state as would have been done if the conduct had occurred in the home state. It should be noted that only "convictions" for traffic violations will be reported back to the home state. If the driver is merely arrested in another state but no conviction results, nothing will be reported back to the Secretary of State in Illinois.

Let's assume that an Illinois driver is on vacation in California. On one particular evening, he has too much to drink and is stopped by a California highway patrolman. He is eventually convicted on the charge of Driving Under the Influence. The California licensing authority would report this conviction to the Secretary of State in Illinois, and the driver's license would be revoked, just as if he had been convicted originally in this state.

If a person travels extensively, he may be cited frequently in other states. This becomes a problem because it is difficult in terms of time and money to return to the jurisdiction where he was cited and contest the ticket which was issued. It is apparent that the privilege of operating a motor vehicle may be suspended on the basis of conduct occurring within the State of Illinois as well as outside this state. To drive carelessly in other states can result in the loss of one's Illinois license.

Public hearings to be held on fingerprinting school workers

The Illinois Criminal Justice Information Authority said Monday it will hold public hearings on a controversial proposal to require fingerprinting for criminal sex abuse background checks of teachers and other school employees.

The authority has not set times and locations yet, but said the hearings will be completed before the General Assembly takes up the issue.

House Speaker Michael Madigan recently threw his clout behind legislation requiring the fingerprinting for new and present teachers. The plan is strongly opposed by the two teacher unions, the Illinois Education Association and the Illinois Federation of Teachers.

Last year, similar legislation failed in the House.

The authority said the legislation poses "technical concerns that must be addressed."

Authority Chairman William Gould cited:

"A need for additional resources so the background checks do not interfere with law enforcement efforts to investigate crimes and perform other duties."

"Lead time needed to train more fingerprint technicians and establish procedures for conducting the background checks."

"Whether prospective employees will be able to review the information being transmitted about them and to correct inaccurate statements. Illinois law allows citizens the right to review their own criminal records."

"Concerns about data quality, such as whether arrests have final dispositions reported with them."

"It is imperative that information the state disseminates about any of our citizens is accurate and complete. Otherwise, innocent people who were arrested for a crime but were never convicted may be punished," Gould said.

Nine Chicago area teachers have been arrested or fired in the last three weeks because of sex abuse charges, but none of them had a criminal background.

Julia Quinn Dempsey, legal counsel for the State Board of Education, said only one teacher taken before the State Board in the past 11 years on sex abuse charges had a prior criminal record.
